Vulcan Spring to Attend BIOMEDevice Silicon Valley

Telford, Pennsylvania: Vulcan Spring & Mfg. has announced it is going to participate in BIOMEDevice, Silicon Valley's leading biotechnology event.

BIOMEDevice Silicon Valley, formerly known as BIOMEDevice San Jose, is the region's must-see winter event, with cutting-edge technology and solutions. This will be Vulcan's final 2021 BIOMEDevice show before starting the new year, welcoming in 2022.

"San Jose is a prime location to connect, collaborate, and plan for the future of patient-centric medical device manufacturing. With many of the world's leading innovators and manufacturers calling California home, much of that centralized in Silicon Valley, BioMed San Jose is a can't miss show," said Vulcan's Strategic Account Manager Jon Racis.

"From robotic-assisted surgery to drug delivery, BioMed will provide an experience like no other, bringing together difference-makers from ISO 13485-registered component suppliers like Vulcan Spring to leading design and development firms, along with OEMs driving the next great advancements in the medical space."

It will be held in San Jose, California from 8-9 December 2021 at the San Jose McEnery Convention Center. Vulcan will be at booth # 422.
